OR MANY YEARS THE CUSTOM OF SE-lecting from unoccupied Government and ailroad lands a range, and claiming a range wnership in such lands, has obtained among the stockmen of this State and the State of Nevada, and the Territory of Utah. In the attempt to exercise this species of free ownership over unoccupied land, the stockmen in many instances, the full facts of which are within my knowledge, have intimidated intending settlement upon unoccupied lands relating to both Government and Railroad lands. The advancing settlement in the valleys of California has almost eliminated this abuse. But the custom still continues upon an extensive scale as relates to lands in the middle altitudes of mountain sections. Stockmen taking up grazing range in the continues upon was left unbroken. The Great Storm. Mendocino, December 21st.—The storm or the last few days has been one of the everest for some years, driving heavy seas ping and moorings in the harbors along the coast to a severe test. At Mendocino haror only the schooner Alfred was in, and it is supposed will ride out the storm in safety. Though having pulled out a post on the shore to which one line was attached, she still rides safety at the big mooring. At Navarro, at a quarter to o'clock on December 18th, the schoone

Washington, December 21st .-- The great obstacle in the way of all legislation affect-National Guard, in a military sense—the mercial policies of the Government, at the present session of Congress, is the change of administration that will take place after the 4th of March. The Republicans insist upon the immediate construction of a The Democrats say they will not vote a dollar for additional cruisers until it is proven that these now building will be successful, and they are convinced that reciprocal treaties, made to change, to a great degree, the commercial policy of the House and Senate are not divided on party lines as to the expediency of carrying ese treaties into effect, the Democrats are nost solidly opposed to them on the question of ratifying the treaty with Nicargua. While the Senate may possibly give that convention its approval, the House will certainly refuse to vote a dollar to be gin the construction of the canal. If Blaine had been elected President, instead of Cleveland, the status of these different subects of legislation would be entirely changed. The Democrats, knowing that they will be responsible for the conduct of national affairs for at least a period of four years from March 4th, refuse to sanction or approve either the construction of a navy, ratification of commercial treaties, the building of an Isthmian canal. Their attitude on these questions now is no indilongress, after Cleveland has sent to the Senate and House his first annual message. They consider it impertinence part of the President to recommend, under the circumstances, necessary to support the Government, especially in the line of future national policy. The Republicans generally appear satisfied with the course of the Adminis-tration in its closing days. It has opened a broad field for inquiry, discussion and consideration, which the Democrats must meet and amend, reverse or ultimately approve as they may see fit. An illustration of the temper that exists between the Republican Senate and the Democratic House was riven vesterday on the question of coninuing the construction of the navy. lead-lock over the many appropriation oills. The Senate refused to pass the House resolution providing for an adjournment from yesterday until the 5th of January. The House refused to agree to the Senate amendments to the navy bills and on motion of Randall adopted a resoution for an adjournment from yesterday until the 24th, thence until the 5th of January, with the understanding that no usiness should be transacted in the meanime. The understanding, however, amounts to very little, as there will be no quorum of nembers present during the holidays, and othing can be done in the House without nanimous consent. The House passed resolution continuing the naval appropriation bill for thirty-one days, but the Senate debated the subject without action, and liourned until Monday. Many Demoratic Senators voted with the Republican najority to insist upon the Senate amend nents to the bill, but it is likely that or Monday the House resolution continuin he appropriations temporarily will holidays from Wednesday may be opted by both houses. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Lighting the Streets. An adjourned meeting of the City Trustees was held Saturday at 1 P. M., to act upon the matter of letting the contract for lighting the streets of the city. All the members were present, and also representatives of the electric light companies and

Mr. Nielsen commenced business immediately by making a motion that the streets of the city be lighted by electricity instead of gas, suggesting that it was prob ably the shortest way of arriving at a set-tlement of the matter for a consideration of which the meeting was held, as, if gas was to be used, the vote would decide it; and if electricity, then there would be a choice made immediately afterwards between the two electric light companies.

On a vote being taken upon the motion,
Mr. Nielsen voted aye; Mr. Gutenberger, aye, on mast system;" and Mr. Brown,

The Clerk announced the vote as two in favor of the proposition and one opposed.

A discussion ensued as to what Mr. Gutenberger meant by his vote, Mr. Brown suggesting that the vote could not properly be recorded as in favor of the motion.

Mr. Gutenberger stated that he was not in favor of letting all of the contract to one person. He had talked with business men on Frent and J streets, and they agreed with him that it was better to divide the contract up between the gas company and the other two, and try them for a while ex-perimentally. He was in favor of having nasts in the outer portion of the city.

Mr. Neilsen did not believe in a division but might vote for it to secure harmony He was satisfied the citizens would not be pleased with such a procedure. They and vote for one thing or the other-gas or the systems by comparison for a year, and then adopt one or the other Mr. Brown said he would move as a test as Mr. Gutenberger's vote could not be re corded either way on the first motion, that a contract be awarded the Capital Gas Com-pany for supplying 180 gas lamps for one year, at $3 90 each per month, the lamps to be distributed west of Twelfth street. The motion was put and carried, Mr. Neilsen voting no, and Messrs. Brown and Gutenberger aye. Mr. Brown moved that the bid of th

Sacramento Electric Light Company, t erect four masts, each with four lamps each lamp 3,000 candle power, at $1,100 each per annum, be accepted, this light to be distributed east of Twelfth street. He thought the city would thus, by gas and electricity, if the latter did what was claimed for it, be better lighted than it had ever been. He did not wish the contract to extend beyond one year.

Mr. Nielsen moved as a substitute that the contract be awarded to the Pacific Company (Thomson & Housten), as he be lieved it to be the best light. A vote was taken on the substitute, and it was lost by a vote of two to one. The original proposition was then put and carried unanimously. The Clerk was directed to request the City Attorney to draw up the necessary contracts and bonds, the latter being fixed at $4,000 for the gas company and $2,000 for the electric light company. It was sugand light as usual until the other company was ready to commence service In answer to a question by Mayor Brown

J. W. Avery, representing the Sacrament Electric Light Company, stated that i would take a month or six weeks, possibly sixty days, to get the necessary machiner for 3,000 candle-power lamps from the East, erect the masts, etc. Trains might as it was the winter season, be detained b bad weather or accidents, and delay th arrival of machinery so that it would re quire the full limit mentioned to get read for business, but on the other hand all th arrangements might be completed much

It was finally decided that the compan should send for its machinery at once erect its masts, and use some other lamp until those of 3,000 candle-power could b

THE SEDUCTION CASE.

She Minutely Relates All the Details of the Alleged Outrage.

Interest in the Ida Evinger seduction case does not seem to abate in the least, and is the subject of conversation throughout the

of 19 years, and he had every reason to believe from his acquaintance with her, that she was a truthful, honest and chaste girl. He never heard her character questioned. She had staid over night at his place on several occasions while visiting his daugh-

Ida Evinger was then placed upon the stand and cross-examined by General Hart. She said that on the evening of the day that she had been outraged by Bulger and Cavanaugh she attended the Metropolitan theater. She went alone but after the performance was escorted home by Emery. She said she did not enjoy the performance at the theater as it was a poor play and rather a poor troupe. She said Emery staid in her room until nearly I o'clock talking to her in regard to her possibilities on the stage. After Emery left she sat down and read the evening paper. She said the editorials and locals were poor reading so she concluded to tackle the advertisements, which she did, and read them all through.

Mr. Hart—Why did you sit up so late?

Witness—Because I wanted to. Mr. Hart-Were you not waiting for Witness-Not exactly. When he did not come at half-past 12 I thought he was not coming. Mr. Emery told me he would be there at that time. Bulger did not say to me that he would be there, but Emery said he would. I did not tell Mr. Emery or any one else that I expected Stafford to call after theater. The witness then detailed the second visit of Stafford to have received. the second visit of Stafford to her room, of his pushing the door open; going in and closing the door; of the arrival of the police, who took him away, etc., all of which was published in Saturday's paper.

Mr. Hart—Now you have minutely detailed the outrogroup treatment to be a second or second. tailed the outrageous treatment you received at the hands of Bulger. If that was true, why did you open your door and admit him to your room again? Witness—I don't know why I did. I wanted to see him about the troupe.

Mr. Hart—Are you in the habit of admitting callers to your room after you have retired for the night? Witness-No, sir; I am not. He pushed his way in. He wanted to stay all night. If he had remained much longer I should have ordered him out.

Mr. Hart-Did you not tell him, in response to the question, "Can I stay all night?" that he could not, for the reason hat you were afraid of the landlady Witness—I did not say to him that I was afraid of the landlady. tinued. She was asked regarding a certain rescription she had filled; asked who prescribed it; what were the ingredients; for what was it administered, and what was the cause of her ill health, all of which she answered with a childish simplicity. She then for the second time detailed all the incidents connected with the entrarease. incidents connected with the outrage committed by Trainor. This cross-examination by Mr. Hart was ingenious, searching, prolonged, and evidently tired the witness, who frequently had to ask for a sup of water. She claimed that on the occasion of each of the three outrages which were committed she was rendered speechless

WHY HE WENT AWAY .- The San Franeisco Post of Saturday publishes a narrative to the following effect: George H. Holton of Sacramento, became enamored, two or three years ago, of a girl named Barbara Zwickel, who assisted his mother in her housekeeping. They went to San Francisco where, the Post says, some sort of a cere mony in the form of marriage was per formed, in the presence of witnesses. They was not avowed, Holton alleging that hi mother would be greatly incensed if sh-was informed of it, and that, as she was in ive to the latter freak, he said he did it lecause he was ordered to. The City Phylician examined him at the station-house, sician examined film at the station-house, and found him suffering somewhat from fever and melancholy. Rambky was on his way to Marysville, where his brother resides, from San Francisco. He went on where she was lodged in comfortable apartents, and took the name of Mrs. Harland A week or two ago he sent her $50, and soon afterwards, having disposed of his roperty here, left for the East, desertin her. As she had very little money remaining, she has returned to her family in Sac amento. A friend of Holton's, who claim that he knows whereof he speaks, declare that the Post's statements may be true in the main, but that it is certain Holton die not go through any form of marriage cer mony with his victim.

This is a low price for oranges at this time in the year, as they were shipped to Sacramento, where Mexican oranges. Twenty dollars to th tree means, however, at the rate of $200 an acre. Gardella Bros. are practical garder ers and fruit growers, and they think nothing they can raise will produce them as good returns as oranges. They have 35 trees, and in two or three years all will be in bearing. The time is fast coming when with a northern market in Oregon and Washington, the foothills of Butte will produce tens of thousands of oranges, and
